

Community Purpose – defined in the Land Act 1994 – means a purpose in Schedule 1

- Aboriginal purposes
- buffer zones generally used as a barrier between parcels of land with differing and/or potentially incompatible uses, or between land for urban or rural uses often identified by a formal planning study.
- cultural purposes to preserve the cultural values in or on the land (e.g. historical burial site, fish trap).
- drainage
- environmental purposes where a parcel of land contains a particular type of flora or fauna or geological occurrence and warrants protection
- gardens a past purpose not generally used today and was used for the establishment of formal display of plants (e.g. botanical gardens). These would now be dedicated as a park reserve.
- Heritage to preserve the heritage of the community (e.g. convict building, Cobb & Co site or structure).
- Historical to preserve the historical values of the state or community (e.g. Dig Tree, wool scour).
- natural resource management
- open space
- parks
- provision of services beneficial to Aboriginal people particularly concerned with land
- provision of services beneficial to Torres Strait Islanders particularly concerned with land
- recreation to be used for informal active recreation facilities.
- scenic purposes used for land that provides a unique or special opportunity for the public to view a particular feature (e.g. waterfall, gorge, rock formation).
- sport
- strategic land management used for land which is to be held from sale or disposal because of its potential to contribute to the future strategic development of the state.
- Torres Strait Islander purposes
